

BACKGROUND

Established in 1980, The MIL Corporation (MIL) began as a small business and signed its first contracts with the Energy Information Administration of the U.S. Department of Energy. The organization has provided solutions to over 17 Federal agencies. Dedicated to excellence, service, and support, MIL recognizes that the customer relationship is the cornerstone to success. This foundation is part of the structure of a full service team, strengthened by an internal network of creative and highly skilled professionals.

MIL provides professional services in the areas of finance, information management, quality assurance, and communications engineering services. Although the company is headquartered in Bowie, MD, there are several satellite offices, including: Lexington Park, MD; Rosslyn, VA.; Charleston, S.C.; and Ridgecrest, CA. MIL maintains a Command, Control, Communications, Computers (C4I) division, which provides design engineering, integration, and life cycle support on all Department of Defense (DoD) based C4I systems. Based in Patuxent River, MD, this division supports Naval Air Systems Command (NAVAIR), Special Operations Command (SOCOM), and other DoD based organizations.

Since its beginning, MIL has been committed to providing high-quality, on-site professional services to its clients. MIL employees average eight years of on-the-job experience and its management averages more than 15 years of experience. Its staff includes those who are certified public accountants (CPAs), certified government financial managers (CGFMs), and Microsoft Certified System Engineers as well as other Microsoft Certified Professionals. MIL now employs over 450 professionals throughout Maryland, Virginia, South Carolina, and California.

Capabilities

Financial Management and Systems

MIL has extensive financial systems support experience with complex, large-scale COTS packages including AMS' Federal Financial System (FFSTM), Momentum, Oracle Federal Financial, and several other COTS packages. Its services include implementing accounting standards, policies, concepts, and reporting requirements. In addition, MIL has implemented standards of the Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board (FASAB), Joint Financial Management Improvement Program (JFMIP), Office of Management and Budget, Department of Treasury, and the General Accounting Office.

MIL's staff provides analysis and reconciliation of working capital funds, general ledger accounts, accrual and cost accounting, budget and accounting operations support, internal controls reviews, and the development of consolidated financial statements. Some of the financial systems support services are:

- Financial/accounting help desk services
- Financial management systems implementation and technical support
- Independent testing and verification
- Web-based reporting
- Financial system development and maintenance
- System accounting services

BACKGROUNDER

Information Technology

MIL has designed and operated classified networks for the Navy, supported complex agency-wide systems operations for departments like State and HUD, and assumed operations roles for COTS software from the vendors themselves. MIL IT services and support include:
